information prior to its release from headquarters here.

In this connection it will be recalled that The GRAPHIC revealed to its readers yesterday that the police were considering further arrests and that Senator Simpson stated that while the information did not come from headquarters it "must have come from a reporter who questioned a witness following his interrogation by the police."

"We will give out no more statements," Capt. Lamb declared. "The reporters, by skillful interrogation of witnesses, have been eliciting information. Everything in the future will come from Senator Simpson in Jersey City."

Simpson, in an interview yesterday afternoon, said that "everything must come from Somerville until they have completed the interrogation of witnesses and I have had an opportunity to examine their testimony."

Object to Criticisms

The attitude of Simpson and his investigators, and a report the prosecutor phoned frantically to headquarters here to denounce his aids for "talking," has given rise to speculation here as to whether the state, perhaps convinced that it has not been able to dig up sufficient new evidence to warrant hope for a conviction, would abate the storm of publicity it aroused by its announcement that the mystery of the crabapple tree would be solved "in twenty-four hours."

Nine witnesses, among them two who were near the Phillips farm on the night of the murder and heard shots, and Henry Mills, brother of James Mills, husband of the murdered woman, were interrogated by the police yesterday afternoon.

Saw Cars in Flight

Charles Jones, who lives on Easton Avenue, near the Phillips farm, testified that he heard shots and then saw two cars race down the lane leading from the farm towards Easton Avenue.

W. F. Ra. dolf, who lives on Canal Road, New Brunswick, about three-quarters of a mile from the scene of the double murder, is believed to have told police that he also heard shots.

Henry Mills, it is said, was interrogated concerning the domestic affairs of his brother's family.

Henry lived only two blocks away from the home which Mrs. Mills left on the night of the murder after flinging back at her husband the challenge, "Follow me, if you want to know where I am going."

Miss Jessie Lameson, organist in the Church of St. John, and said to have been a friend of the slain minister, was questioned yesterday, as was James Curran, New Brunswick policeman, who was the first officer on the scene after the bodies were discovered.

Flapper Passe, Boys Wed Old-Fashioned Girl, He Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (By U. P.).—Flapperism is slowly passing in the United States, according to Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Public Morals. Furthermore, the world at large is getting better and more people are going to heaven, he says.

Pickett said the average young men do not approve of flapperism. He said the boys liked to go out with the ultra modern girls but picked young women with old fashioned ideas for their wives.

"There is less immorality, less real sinning now than 100 years ago, but there is more vulgarity," he asserted.

50 Drown in Japan As Bridge Collapses

TOKIO, Aug. 12 (By U. P.).—Fifty persons were drowned at Noshirminato in Akita prefecture when the railing of a bridge from which they were watching a religious fete broke last night.

Only three bodies have been recovered, the others having been carried downstream in the rushing torrent.

Last Minute Fight On for Candy Kid

Whittemore, Jr., were to see him. Mrs. Rawlings B. Whittemore, the bandit's sister-in-law, was also given permission.

None of the relatives is to be permitted to witness the execution.

In the death house will be between 50 and 60 persons. Only those with cards of admission are to see Whittemore hanged with the exception of those regularly required by law to be present.

Thirty newspaper reporters have cards.

The steadfast young wife of Whittemore, the girl known in New York as "the blond tiger," heard her man doomed. So did Rawlings V. Whittemore, Sr., his father, and Rawlings V. Whittemore, Jr., his respected brother. And the young state's attorney whose mastery of law sent the youth to death was Herbert R. O'Connor, who, years ago, went to parochial school with Whittemore.

And so tonight he dies, in the city where, as a kid in the streets, he learned the thievery which led him finally to highway robbery, murder and the gallows.

BULGARS PAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (By U. P.).—The cost of living in Bulgaria is 2,617 per cent. higher than before the war. Greece has an increase of 1,631 per cent. Germany's costs are only 41 per cent. above pre-war level.
